7.	John McCullough.	7.	No nomination.
8.	John A. Reyburn.	8.	Anth'y A. Lechler.

18.	James Newell.	18.	Philip Lowry, Jr.

*Wm. J. Owens, although he agreed to abide by the decision of the Republican Executive Committee, which subsequently declared Mr. O'Neil to be the regular nominee, is also a candidate in this district.

†Josephus Yerkel is also a candidate in this district, and claims to be the regular nominee.

Commenting on the Democratic nominees the Inquirer says: "These are all estimable gentlemen, but they have not that popularity among the masses of the people necessary to insure their success at the polls in October. Indeed, it is not possible that they can expect success in view of the strength of the opposition, but rather that like good patriots they have bravely consented to place themselves in the front of a losing contest simply to maintain the appearance of organization in their party. The conventions of yesterday had their work all prepared for them by a few leading gentlemen among the Democrats, and they did wisely to follow out the programme made for their guidance. The nominations are good ones, so good, indeed, that it is almost a pity that they must necessarily all be defeated."

There is a quarrel between the Democrats of Carbon and Monroe, about the nomination for Assembly, both counties claiming the right to the representative. Unless a compromise of some kind can be effected, it is said Monroe will run Burnett, and Carbon will present Dimmick; in which case a Republican member may be elected. In Carbon the Lehigh Register says the Republicans and Labor Reformers have united and formed a county ticket which it is believed will be elected.

R. H. Singer, Democratic nominee for Coroner in Cambria county, has declined.

The Altoona Sun, straight-out Democratic, pays the following tribute to Judge Gordon: "An original abolitionist the prospect of a bloody civil war had no terrors for him, provided it ended in the destruction of the 'sum of all villainies.' We speak of this to his credit, for he was always one of your positive men. There was no shuffling, or indirection, or concealment about him. It was the same on the temperance and on all other questions of proposed reform. He was no half-way man, and no sneak, nor the wearer of two faces under one hat. The only question for him to solve was, would the proposition serve a good purpose? If his judgment decided that it would, all he desired was the power to enforce it no matter who said nay."

The Republicans of Bradford county have nominated the following ticket: Assembly, E. R. Myer, James H. Webb; Associate Judge, J. W. Ingham; Treasurer, Matt. Marshall; Commissioner, Abram Snell; Jury Commissioner, B. F. Knapp; Auditor, E. R. De Long.

Ohio.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., VIA WHEELING, September 5, 1873.

A rousing and enthusiastic Republican mass meeting was held here this evening in the Town Hall, which was packed full of eager listeners. Gov. Ed. F. Noyes spoke for over an hour on the questions at issue in this State campaign. He noted the disaffection in the Democratic ranks last fall, critically examined Allen's late speech in an amusing style, alluded to the Credit Mobilier stock held by Brooks, and reviewed the back-pay matter. He spoke on the railroad monopoly question, and came out squarely on the tariff for giving protection to our native industries.

California.

THE ELECTIONS—VICTORY FOR THE PEOPLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 5—The returns from the precincts come in slowly, no ward being complete. Some doubt the election of Bartlett, the anti-Railroad candidate to the Senate. Otis, for Mayor, heads McDonald, the Democrat. There is a good majority for Crowly, Chief of Police. The taxpayers are beaten about two thousand five hundred. Returns from the interior are imperfect, but show a great victory for the people. Sacramento, San Jaque, Santa Clara, Los Angeles, Alameda, Contra Costa, Yolo, and Colusa declare for the people's independence ticket. The Democrats claim a small gain in the Legislature. Close figuring is required for the Senatorial contest.

Fraud is apprehended in making final count of several wards in the city, for the purpose of giving the legislative ticket to the Democracy. Rewards have been offered for the detection of any attempt at fraud.

General.

The Chicago Times thinks that Caesarism and Bourbonism are but inscriptions on opposite sides of the same shield. There is no possible way to antagonize one without antagonizing both. It tells the Bourbons who are laboring in the political graveyard of a past age, that if they are not incapable of understanding the nature of man, they should know that the historical slavery party which stood as the defender and upholder of the crime cannot be allowed still to live and project itself as a controlling political force into the new era.

One of the queerest political suggestions recently made, is contained in Hon. Henry S. Foote's political article published in the Washington Chronicle of Tuesday, it being a suggestion by Senator Brownlow that in a certain contingency, which he regards as possible, Mr. Foote run as a candidate for Governor of Tennessee against Jeff. Davis. Mr. Brownlow says in his letter to Mr. Foote, which is dated at Knoxville, Tennessee, August 28: "On one condition I would be glad to see old Jeff. continue his speaking campaign just inaugurated at the White Sulphur Springs. I understand that some of the Rip Van Winkle Democrats, who have not yet learned that slavery is abolished and the Democratic party dead, desire to run Col. Jefferson Davis, of Memphis, for Governor of Tennessee. I hope they will do so, and I believe Davis wants to make the race. In that event I hope to see you take the field as a candidate."

Publishers of country journals may not know that they are liable to a fine of five dollars each for every advertising circular they send out enclosed in their papers. The mere printing of the line "Supplement of the Journal," or whatever the name of the paper may be, over the top of these circulars does not relieve them from the penalty.

The Reading Eagle tells this: One of our colored fellow-citizens is again in trouble. He has long admired a colored widow living in the next block above, but being afraid to come out boldly and reveal his passion, went to a white man of his acquaintance, the other day, and asked him to write the lady a letter asking her hand in marriage. The friend wrote, telling the woman, in a few brief lines, that the size of her feet was the talk of the neighborhood, and asking her if she couldn't pare them down a little. The name of the colored man was signed, and he was to call on her on Sunday night for an answer. A few days after, the writer of the letter met the negro limping along the street, and asked him what the widow said. The man showed him a bloodshot eye, a scratched nose, a lame leg, and a spot on the scalp where a handful of wool had been violently jerked out, and he answered in solemn tones, "She didn't say nuffin', an' I didn't stay dar mor'n a minute!"

Mrs. Margaret Rambo, whose mind is unsound, left her sister's house, Mrs. David May, in Chippewa township, Beaver county, on the 27th of July. Northampton had a similar visitation in the evening when the barn of Alfred Starkweather was blown down, Williams's basket factory partly demolished and Clapp's foundry unroofed. The path of the latter gale extended across the town from west to east, and was only ten rods wide.

A Purchase of Newspapers for the United States Library.

The Librarian of the Library of the United States has effected the purchase of the Savannah Republican, 126 volumes from 1802 to 1873. The paper was semi-weekly, till 1807, a weekly till 1817, after which it was daily during the fall and winter and tri-weekly in summer. In 1840 it became a daily throughout the year, and became a morning paper. A short time since it was consolidated with the Savannah Advertiser. At first the paper was conservative, and supported Jackson in 1828, but went over to the Whig party during his administration. It opposed secession, but subsequently allied itself with the destinies of the State of Georgia. In 1864 it was seized by Gen. Sherman and sold to parties who ran it in the interest of the government. After the war it became conservative, and was sold out at auction in 1868. This purchase adds another valuable contribution to the already extensive newspaper branch of the library. Mr. Spofford is negotiating for other accessories of the same sort.

The Geneva Award.

The Syndicate have completed their transactions with the Treasury relative to the payment of the fifteen and one-half millions constituting the Alabama award, due on the 16th of the present month. The amount will be immediately invested in five per cent. bonds as the law directs. It is understood that the claim of the Syndicate for commission will be referred.

A Defalcating Collector.

The First Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue has left for Springfield, Illinois to investigate the defalcation of Collector Harper. The collector, it appears, wrote out his resignation, and handed it to his clerk to be delivered at Washington, and left for parts unknown. The defalcation was known in the office here before the clerk arrived. The amount is placed at $100,000, for which Harper's bonds are good.

The Official Register

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Third Day of the Erie Annual Conference at Brookville—Work Proceeding Smoothly.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

BROOKVILLE, PA., September 5, 1873.

The conference opened at eight o'clock with services by Rev. E. S. Gillett. Bishop Haven accepted an invitation to deliver a lecture this evening on Mexico. Eight local preachers were elected to deacon's order, and fourteen deacons of the second class continued. Dr. Reed, Missionary Secretary, addressed the conference, touching the difficulties involved in missionary work, in a speech full of solid parts necessary for the information of every minister present, which statements were fully indorsed in a few earnest words by Bishop Haven. The class to be received into full connection was called, and the usual questions asked in Bishop Haven's able and convincing manner. The address was more lengthy than customary on such occasions, but seemed to impress those who heard it most forcibly. Rev. McFarland, of the U. P. Church, was introduced, and submitted resolutions favoring the recognition of God and Christ in the National Constitution, which were referred to a special committee, where they will probably sleep. Dr. Hunter and Rev. Steppy, of Pittsburgh, and Rev. Donaldson, of Ireland, were introduced. The main work of the Conference seems to be done in committee, hence the daily session of four hours runs smoothly, and business is promptly as well as satisfactorily dispatched by the distinguished Bishop.

Special Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Commercial.

BROOKVILLE, PA., THURSDAY MORNING, September 4, 1873.

Conference assembled at eight A. M., and was opened with religious services by Rev. C. R. Chapman. The roll was once more called, and the majority of those previously absent having arrived, the further call of the roll was dispensed with.

Communications from Carrier Seminary, Lake Shore Seminary, Willoughby College and Garrett Biblical Institute, were presented and referred to the Committee on Education.

A resolution which must have been exceedingly gratifying, as it was deservedly complimentary, to Dr. A. Wheeler, was adopted, requesting a copy of his able and excellent missionary sermon for publication.

Dr. R. Nelson, senior agent of the Book Concern at New York, was introduced and addressed the Conference in a manner at once able, impressive and entertaining.

John H. Stewart, G. P. Preston, H. N. Steadman, J. L. Stratton, P. O'Connor, J. H. Meek, J. R. Watters, H. C. Smith, D. C. Plannett, S. D. Wingard, J. C. Rhodes, J. Garnett, D. H. Snowden, E. Brown and O. Olson were examined, passed and continued on trial.

A. W. Rundells, W. J. Wilson and W. L. Riley were passed and directed to appear before the Committee of Examination next Conference. O. Jones was discontinued.

Mrs. A. Wittenmeyer, Corresponding Secretary of the Ladies' and Pastors' Christian Union, was introduced, and apologized for not being able to address the Conference as she desired, on account of illness and the necessity of leaving so as to reach another Conference before the close of its session. In a few brief but appropriate remarks, she directed attention to the importance of the Society's work, and urged the necessity of the ministers giving their attention to the Christian and humane operations of the Association. Her address was effective and impressive, and will not soon be forgotten by her attentive auditory.

H. Henderson, J. M. Foster, W. Branfield, M. L. Eshbaugh, R. F. Randolph, G. W. Chandler, J. B. Uright, N. B. Stone and G. W. Beatty were admitted into full connection, and elected to Deacon's orders.

Dr. Vincent of the U. P. Church, and Judge Gordon, candidate for Supreme Judge of Pennsylvania, were introduced to the Conference. Mr. Gordon was called upon to make a speech, and in response thanked the Conference for the kindness, excusing himself from making a speech by modestly saying that he did not feel himself competent to address so able and dignified a body of men as that in whose presence he stood.

Several vacancies having occurred in the committees appointed yesterday, their places were supplied; after which the Doxology was sung and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. Abbott.

The missionary anniversary will be held this evening in the Methodist church, to be addressed by Dr. J. M. Reid and Bishop Haven. V.

CRIMES.

A Vile Outrage Upon a Little Girl—Determination to Lynch the Perpetrator.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

FORT WAYNE, IND., September 5, 1873.

A couple of days since a man named James Canavan, at Muskegon, Michigan, succeeded in enticing a little girl of nine years into the woods, where he kept her all night and committed the vilest outrages on her person, among other outrages severely cutting her with a knife. The girl died next day from the effects of his brutality. The wretch was arrested on the day his victim died and lodged in jail. A crowd of citizens entered the jail determined upon lynching him, but at the earnest solicitation of the girl's father they were influenced to let him await the terrors of the law. This same man assaulted a little girl at Big Rapids, Michigan, a few days previous with the same intention, but was discharged, no evidence being produced to sustain the charge. The people of Michigan are all determined upon the heaviest punishment possible by law.

Decease of a Well-known Citizen.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

GRANVILLE, O., September 5, 1873.

Dr. Sylvester Spellman, a well-known and highly respected citizen of this county, died this morning at the advanced age of eighty-four years. He settled here fifty years ago, having a large number of relatives and friends. Through the State the news of his death will be sadly received by all.

OHIO NEWS.

General Godman has concluded the work of investigating the financial affairs of Fairfield county, and filed his report with the County Commissioners. The total deficit in the county funds amounts to the enormous sum of $142,245 71. J. W. Towsan and Thornton F. Baker, deputies in the offices of Treasurer and Auditor, seem to be the responsible parties for this great fraud upon the taxpayers. Towsan is at home seriously ill, while Baker has departed for parts unknown.

Mr. Joseph Clingan, aged eighty-three, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Rev. W. H. Taylor, in Mt. Vernon, a few days ago. He was a citizen of Wooster and had lived there some sixty years. He printed a newspaper in Wooster in 1818 and was one of the proprietors of the Wayne county Democrat when that paper was established in 1826.

John Connor, a carpenter and joiner in Norfolk, engaged in a playful scuffle with Sam. Palfreyman and died thirty-six hours thereafter. A post mortem examination disclosed the rupture of an intestine which was pronounced the cause of his death.

Last Saturday, a colored man of Troy, after working in the hot sun all day, ate ten ears of green corn, four cucumbers, and drank a pint of whisky. He then laid down and died, and people there call it a case of cholera.

Deacon A. W. W. Hickox, of Conneut, Ashtabula county, now in the seventy-ninth year of his age, is probably the oldest printer in Ohio. In 1821 he established the first paper printed in the county, and has followed the business since that time.

Rev. Matthew Gardner, of Ripley, aged eighty-three, for over sixty years a minister of the Christian denomination, fell and broke his thigh while attending Christian Camp Meeting at Hyannis, Mass., last month.

The Warren Chronicle thus pays its respects to the postal authorities of the nation: We have heretofore advertised the list of letters remaining in the Warren postoffice at a certain date. Hereafter we will not. Reason: The franking privilege has been abolished. No dead heads in the postal department. The country resident subscriber pays postage on his local paper; the newspaper publisher pays postage on all his exchanges. Sponging played. All right. It is a "poor rule that won't work both ways." The Postmaster General says he won't pay us for publishing the uncalled for list. Good-bye, Cresswell & Co.

William McDairmid was the "devil" in the Edinburg printing office which published the first of Sir Walter Scott's Waverly Novels. And, now, at the age of eighty, he recounts the reminiscences of those by-gone days to his fellow typos in the office of the Cincinnati Saturday Night.

A crowd of Morgan county people "went west" last Monday. They propose to make Oregon their abiding place.

"Black Band" is the name of a new postoffice in Tuscarawas county, so called from the abundance of black band ore found in the vicinity.

Judge A. S. Dickey, a prominent citizen of Ross county, died of cholera, in Ripley, Brown county, a few days ago.

Akron purchased two hundred and seven thousand three hundred pounds of wool during the season just closed.

W. B. McCord, publisher and editor of the Wellsville Union, deserves credit for the great change for the better which he has wrought in the appearance of that paper. Formerly a dingy-looking, almost unreadable sheet, it is now as bright and fresh-looking as any exchange on our list. It is full to the brim, too of tasteful selections, well considered editorials and crisp local paragraphs.

Canton will have six lectures this winter, from Bret Harte, Mrs. Scott Siddons, "Petroleum V. Nasby," Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Paul B. Du Chaillu, and Dr. J. J. Villiers, ("Gumption Cute.")

Orwell, Ashtabula county, will have a brass band convention, on the 4th of October, on the fair grounds. Cotton batting for ear-stuffing is in great demand there.

Jefferson county has a peach tree sixty years old, which bears fruit every year.

Athens county has two men aged ninety-four and ninety-two years.

ACCIDENT IN A COAL PIT.

A Train Delayed—Men and Boys Almost Suffocated—One Boy Run Over and Killed.

Between three and five o'clock yesterday afternoon a fatal accident occurred in Keeling's coal pit, the mouth of which opens at the head of Twelfth street, overlooking Birmingham. A full train, consisting of thirty cars, started from the rear pit, and a number of the miners, having finished their day's work, got upon the cars to be conveyed to the front. When coming through the valley between the hills a lot of boys also got upon the train for a ride through the outer pit. This outer pit runs a distance of fourteen hundred feet, and when within about five hundred feet of their destination, as is reported, the fires having become low steam gave out. Firing up commenced by the officers, and a dense smoke was the result, which, with the foul air of the pit, exhausted those upon the train, and the officers found that it was necessary to hurry out or fatal results would follow. One story says that they uncoupled all but two cars and thus ran out to the front for the purpose of getting fresh air while increasing the amount of steam. Another story is that the coupling broke causing a short run without all the cars, as stated. At all events a sudden start was finally made with the whole train and it reached the opening with all its human freight more or less exhausted. The engineer, James Barclay and the fireman, John Buchanan, had fallen over upon the boiler, while John Ackerman who with Samuel Panifray accompanied the officers, was enabled to shut off the steam partially when making the entrance. After it had reached the opening Mr. Joseph Burns an outside employee who was formerly an engineer, noticed something wrong, and jumping upon the locomotive stopped it entirely, or it would have run into the check house and over the hill.

The condition of things soon became apparent, and it was found that the engineer and fireman, in falling against the boiler, were burned somewhat. Employees and others soon gathered round, and efforts were at once made to resuscitate the sufferers. When this had been accomplished it was learned that one boy, George McClean by name, was missing. Search was made, and between six and seven o'clock the unfortunate little fellow was found to have been run over, and his head was almost severed from his body. Deceased was the son of Mr. George McClean, of the city fire alarm telegraph office, who, with his brother, was visiting an uncle residing on Coal Hill. He was about fifteen years of age. Willie, his brother, was seriously effected by the atmosphere, and fears for his recovery were held last night.

Of the miners who were on the train we have learned the names of Richard Leeds, J. Sharp, John Nichol, George Altmyer and Joseph Eicher. All of these men, together with the half dozen or more boys who were on board the train, were affected. One of the boys is the son of Frank Spinneweaver, the manager of the works.

The cause of the accident, which might have been fearful, will likely be investigated by the Coroner.

Proposed New Railroad.

The directors of the Brownsville and Youghiogheny Railroad Company, of which Mr. A. L. McFarland is the President, met yesterday on Liberty street and discussed the project and measures needed to be taken for its success.

This proposed new road is to extend from Brownsville, Fayette county, to Greensburg, Westmoreland county, by such route as may be deemed most practicable and important. Three routes have been suggested, but as yet the question has not come up for consideration.

The Redstone Coal Company is taking an interest in the projected work, and will give it aid.

Estimates of the Water Commission.

The members of the Water Commission held a meeting yesterday and passed estimates for the work done on Brilliant Hill, Hiland avenue and Herron's Hill reservoirs, the estimates of A. Hartupee on contract for engine, on contract for engine foundations, stop gates, etc., and also the estimates for pipes for which Wm. Smith is the contractor. These are all monthly estimates, and with the pay roll will aggregate over one hundred thousand dollars. The bond of A. Hartupee & Co., contractors for the new engines, to the amount of $375,000, was presented and approved.

A Clerical Swindler.

Two scoundrels, one giving his name as Rev. McDonough, have been operating in the Eleventh and Thirteenth wards for the past few days, collecting money, as they state, for a Catholic church building in Chicago. They represented themselves as stopping with Father Tracey, and it is already known that they have fleeced a number of poor servant girls, if not others.

Practical Penmanship.

The ability to write a neat and rapid hand is by no means the least important part of a good business education. In fact, without this, all other accomplishments are comparatively valueless. Deficiency in this has been the cause of failure in many otherwise qualified for important positions. Hence our advice to young men to lose no opportunity for acquiring skill in this particular. And to those desirous of becoming proficient in the art, we would say there is no better place for attaining it than the Iron City College, where this important branch is regularly and ably taught by Prof. Cowley, everywhere known, not only as the finest penman, but the most successful teacher in the United States.

CLOTHING FOR THE FEET.

The Boot and Shoe Trade of Pittsburgh—One of Our Representative Houses—An Immense Stock of the Most Desirable Goods—Why Retail Merchants Should Not Go East for Their Supplies.

Very few persons outside of the trade have any idea of the amount of capital invested in the boot and shoe business in this city. There are many wholesale dealers in this class of goods, but the writer hereof will confine this sketch to one of the leading and representative firms—that of Gill & Bro., No. 253 Liberty street. A visit to their establishment, yesterday afternoon, caused much wonder in the reporter's mind: first, as to the great variety of the goods in store; second, the beauty and convenience of the large building, capable of holding boots and shoes enough, apparently, to supply every man, woman and child in almost any one of the Western States.

The firm of Gill & Bro. is composed of men young in years and full of energy and enterprise, yet having a thorough and complete knowledge of every branch of the trade in which they are engaged. On the 1st of February, 1873, they removed from their old stand on Wood street to the present location, where they have the advantage of being in a few minutes' walk of the Union Depot, and where they are surrounded by leading wholesale houses in other branches of business. Since the change their trade has increased fully fifty per cent. over that transacted during the corresponding months of last year, and is still growing steadily. It is doubtful whether their present spacious establishment will be sufficient for their trade in the course of two years more.

Many of the readers of the COMMERCIAL would, no doubt, be interested in a short description of what was seen in a leisurely walk through this establishment.

To begin, then, with the first floor: Here are kept men's, boys' and youths' boots and brogans, of all grades and styles, from the heavily-nailed shoe for the miner and the mill-hand to the finest sewed French calf boot for the most exacting gentleman. Here, too, are to be seen the "Fort Pitt Boots," a brand belonging exclusively to this house. They are made of different grades of heavy leather, and in a variety of styles—half-double and tap soles, wire-quilted bottoms, etc. These goods are exactly suited for farm and other heavy outdoor work in winter, being heavy and durable, and as nearly water-proof as possible. They have been sold by this house for many years past, and have gained a reputation unequaled by any other make of a similar class. They are made with legs ranging from sixteen to twenty-two inches in length.

On the second floor are to be found shoes and gaiters for women and misses, of all styles and qualities, varying in price from fifty cents up to four dollars per pair. The material used and the workmanship, of course, regulate the price. The stock embraces large lines of calf, A calf, buff, goat, morocco, pebble-grain and lasting. It would be well for dealers to take a look through the large assortment of goods of Philadelphia make to be found in this department. They are the best in the market, and can be bought here as cheaply as at the manufactory.

On the third floor are stored slippers for men and women, and shoes for children. All kinds of these articles in abundance, ranging from the common carpet slipper to the finest kid, are here displayed. The stock is comprehensive, embracing something to suit all tastes and purses.

On the fourth floor is kept a stock, in duplicate of all the goods displayed belowed, and a large line of rubber boots and shoes. Gill & Bro., are agents for the best rubber goods made, which they offer to their customers at manufacturer's rates.

The interest of the "hewers of wood" has not been forgotten. The firm have in store a large number of boots suitable for the winter wear of lumbermen. They are made from moose-hide, are perfectly impervious to the water, and are of such a nature as to render slipping from a log almost impossible.

Miners, as is well known, are very fastidious, so to speak, as to the style of nails which shall adorn the bottoms of their shoes, scarcely any two mines buying the same kind. Well, Gill & Bro. have provided for this emergency, and have shoes with all kinds of nails, from the small round or square heads to those a quarter of an inch across the top. The shoes are made correspondingly strong, and look to a casual observer as if they would outlast two or three generations.

Although the stock kept on hand is large, and new goods are constantly arriving, there seems to be no great accumulation, as the shipments more than counterbalance them. There is little for wonder in the growing popularity of this house. Their advantages in purchasing in the great manufacturing centers, enable them to duplicate Eastern bills; while the retail merchant saves the difference in his fare between this city and the East, and the added freight charges from the latter section. This, in connection with liberal dealing, has given the Messrs. Gill a hold on the trade in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, as well as further West and South, which it would be hard to break. Retailers will consult their own interest by calling at No. 253 Liberty street and looking through the establishment.

VIVE LA REPUBLIQUE.

First Anniversary—Celebration by French Residents.

The first anniversary of the French Republic was celebrated yesterday by the French residents of the two cities, under the auspices of the French Mutual Beneficial Society and the Swiss Society of Allegheny City. A grand procession was arranged and carried out successfully in the afternoon, and in the evening a ball was given in Allegheny. The procession started from Ohio street on the North Side, and traversed the following streets of the two cities: Along Ohio street to Chestnut, along Chestnut to Second, along Second to Middle, along Middle to Ohio, along Ohio to City Hall, along Federal to Pittsburgh, thence by Market to Fifth avenue, thence to Smithfield street, thence to Grant street, thence to Fifth avenue, thence to Smithfield street, thence to Liberty and Tenth streets and Penn avenue, and thence to Mechanic street bridge to Turner Hall, Cherry and Canal streets, Allegheny.

Escort of City Police.
Chief Marshal—Capt. B. Gallisath.
Aids—Fred. Bass, Charles Gerst, C. C. Gerst, John Seibert, Peter Gallisath, J. R. Snyder, A. Reittie and George Schope.
Great Western Band.
Members of the French Mutual Beneficial Society on foot.
Excelsior Band.
Carriages containing Ladies.
Wagons with little Girls in white.

Upon one of the wagons, which was handsomely decorated, and contained little girls dressed in white, was the following inscription:

"Liberte, Protege, L'Humanite."

On one side of a banner was,

"Vive Liberty of France," and on the other,

"Five Milliards Paid Without an Emperor."

The procession drew crowds upon the streets, and many inquiries were made regarding it.

Carved Wood.

There is probably no more tasteful and beautiful work than the wood carving found in all sections of the country in large institutions, such as banks, insurance offices, etc. In fact the fitting up at present of an office handsomely has grown nearly to a science. In various places of the kind spoken of above may be found the handiwork of Messrs. Moeck & Bros., factory corner of Second avenue and Try street. It is without a blemish as to taste and durability. They also are noted for the great variety of plain wood work, such as desks, counters and shelving. Parties desiring to place an office or a store in thorough shape have but to drop in on these gentlemen and their every want will be supplied.

Radical Society.

The Radical Society meets to-morrow at 2½ P. M., instead of the morning, as lately. Subject for tomorrow: Theologians. On Sunday, 14th inst., the veteran liberal lecturer, Warren Chase, will be in the city and address the Society.

By reference to Church notices, it will be seen that services are to be resumed at Messiah Lutheran church, Ninth street, to-morrow, Sunday, 7th, at usual hours for services, morning and evening. During the time the church was closed the building has undergone thorough repairs and cleaning, walls and ceilings neatly frescoed, and new pulpit piece, the old glass taken out of the windows and replaced by new of very pretty designs. A new pipe organ from the famous manufacturers, Hook & Hastings, of Boston, has also been added, at which Professor DeHam will in future preside. The friends of the congregation are cordially invited, and seats free.

PEARL WHEAT IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST
Delicious, Wholesome and Nourishing
Preparation of nature's great food ever produced. Essentially nothing but the woody fibre and a portion of the water are removed by the process, leaving all the starch, gluten and the greatest part of the mineral substances (phosphates), all that is nourishing in the wheat. The removal of the woody fibre makes it far more palatable than the various preparations of wheat now in the market. No other article of food contains such proper proportions of the requirements of the whole human system. To those suffering from INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, and to persons of sedentary habits, it will prove invaluable. As a BREAKFAST DISH it is unequaled. Our best physicians here say it is of more importance than anything else that can be found. Try it once and you will never be without it. Ask your Grocer or Druggist for a Package. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1873.

WE see it stated that a new geological survey of Ohio is contemplated. If this is the case we may presently hope for a settlement of the vexed question as to the real geologic period to which ALLEN properly belongs.

ONE of the leading Democratic papers of the Eastern States thinks that the great want of that party is leaders. And followers, it might have added: for, thanks to the emancipating and quickening spirit of the age, the number of their dupes is every day growing less and less.

THE accounts between the United States and Great Britain, in connection with the Geneva award, will be finally settled to-day. In the transaction not one dollar in cash gold has changed hands, the whole amount of sixteen millions being paid in called bonds and coupons. The twenty million call bonds, due to-day, will be exchanged for new bonds, no gold being paid out.

THIS is the Western State Fair season. The Iowa and Nebraska State Fairs will open next Monday. The Illinois State Fair will open on the 15th instant. The Indiana State Fair will open September 10; that of Wisconsin September 22; and that of Michigan September 15. These annual exhibitions of the industry, the skill, and the products of our people, have become a permanent institution of this country, and are every year increasing in importance, and in the measure of their attractiveness and success.

THE Harrisburg Patriot concedes the election of the Republican State ticket, and, true to its old instincts, begins to abuse the people now that it sees the utter impossibility of deluding them. The same thing occurred last year; and the sneering imputations of that paper on the intelligence and integrity of the voters of Pennsylvania, will have just about the same effect now as they produced then. The people have a thorough comprehension of what they are about, understand the Patriot and its party like a book, and despise alike its cajolery and its villification.

IN VIEW of the high-handed and steadily increasing outrages perpetrated by the mobs of Missouri, one of the principal papers of that State pertinently asks: "Who, that is worth shooting, is safe?" We respectfully turn the question over to the Post, whose familiarity with the internal affairs of Missouri is—or should be—much greater than our own, since not more than a few days ago it cited the condition of that very State in support of its statement that the Democratic Commonwealths of the South were much more peaceful and prosperous than their Republican sisters.

IF—as it would apparently seem desirous of leading its readers to infer—the Tribune really believes that the so-called "Farmers' Party" in Minnesota, which recently held a convention and nominated a candidate for Governor, has even the ghost of a chance of success, it deserves a premium for verdancy. Hon. C. K. DAVIS, the Republican candidate for Governor, is exceedingly popular among the farmers, and will be triumphantly elected over any combination which can possibly be made against him. After the election the opposition candidate will be puzzled to find any indications that he has been running.

A VERY important interest of this country is that of the wool trade, the outlook as regards which is quite encouraging. A number of large purchases have recently been made in New York by a heavy buyer from Belgium, at fully the current European quotations; a fact which would seem to indicate that the quality of the wool on this side is regarded as superior to that attainable there. Some of our buyers have again gone to Australia, a movement which will not be unlikely to strengthen prices in that market. Upon the whole, the signs of the times would appear to promise a firmer market—of which farmers and holders will by no means complain.

"ISN'T it a little curious that the Pennsylvania Democrats used for their State platform this year the identical resolutions already adopted by the Ohio Democrats, with the exception of that clause which insists that "our tariff should be formed with a view to revenue, and not to tax the community for the benefit of particular industries"?—Troy Times.

Not at all. The true reason of the Pennsylvania departure from copy was probably not so much that the platform makers did not agree with their Ohio brethren, as that they lacked the pluck to avow it. They had not the courage of their opinions—that is all; hence—

"Letting I dare not wait upon I would,
Like the poor cat i' the adage."

ABSOLUTE free trade would seem to be the objective point of the Western Democracy—the party in Ohio included; in which connection it is interesting to note that, while the Wilkesbarre Convention did not dare to openly indorse the anti-tariff plank of the Buckeye Bourbons, yet the very first resolution in the declaration of principles adopted by the Convention affirmed that the Democratic party of Pennsylvania believed the platform laid down by the Ohio Convention to be "sound in principle"—thereby virtually, if sneakingly, arraying themselves in the ranks of the opponents of the protective tariff legislation under which our wonderful industrial progress of the last decade has been principally achieved.

SPEAKING of the developments which have lately been made concerning the iron trade of Great Britain, and the influence they are likely to exert on the same industry in this country, the Boston Post says:

> "The opportunity for the Pennsylvania manufacturers has come, and they seem disposed to make the best of it. New furnaces are being put up in all directions, and iron in large quantities is being sold to fill Canadian orders, some of these orders being, it is said, destined for England."

The free traders, however, are doing their level worst to prevent our people from making "the best of it;" and the Democratic leaders of the State stand by and encourage them in their mischievous interference, by intimating it to be "sound in principle."

A NEW YORK paper gives some interesting details concerning the new English method of manufacturing illuminating gas by superheated steam, which is subsequently decomposed by passing it through a retort and thence through petroleum. By this simple and economical process, it seems, a bright gas is procured, at a saving of from twenty-five to seventy-five per cent. according to the price of coal. With three tons of coke, and one hundred and ninety-eight gallons of petroleum spirit, one hundred and sixty-five thousand cubic feet of gas can be produced, with an illuminating power equal to about eighteen sperm candles, according to the photometer, at a cost, including everything—wages, waste, fuel, and wear and tear—of £13 15s 10d. This is at the rate of about 1s 8d, or a little over forty cents, per one thousand feet. Compared with the extortionate charges of the gas monopolies here, this is the merest trifle. The Company has contracted to light the city of Chichester for a year. In describing the arrangements a correspondent says:

> "It is necessary to use about half the volume of coal gas, not because the water gas will not burn, but because it is necessary to have coke as the cheapest fuel, and the cheapest way to make coke is to make gas out of coal. But any coal which a coal gas maker would reject is good enough for making coke for this purpose. Any slack or small coal will do. The gas is taken out of it, be the same much or little, and the residue is available for heating the boiler which gives the steam, and the retorts, which, it should be said, need replenishing only once in twelve hours, while the scrap or other iron put into them need not be cleared out, or the retorts cleaned, for a fortnight at a time. The saving of labor is therefore enormous, and, indeed, some have gone as far as to say it will, in working on a large scale, reach eighty per cent. The calculation is that the minimum saving on gas works using ten thousand tons of coal per annum would be £3,750, coal being at the price at which it now stands at Chichester. The water produced runs away from the washer into a sewer or an open drain, and the gas itself is so inocuous that rabbits have rapidly recovered and lived long after exposure to its effects.

While it is possible that the sanguine expectations entertained concerning the experiment may not be realized, the matter is at least worth watching on this side of the water. Chichester is a place of some seven or eight thousand inhabitants, and should the plan prove successful on that scale, there would seem to be no good reason why it might not succeed here on a larger one. Pittsburgh, as well as other cities, is interested in this matter.

THE veteran political economist, HENRY CAREY BAIRD, who has just returned from a somewhat prolonged visit to England, expresses himself satisfied that there are a vast number of implements, appliances, and products of our diversified industries which are infinitely superior, in proportion to their prices, to anything which the English make for the same uses; and further, that in the very home of our old industrial rival there is to-day a vast market, which invites us to take possession of it, and which can be taken and held by means of a sufficient concentration of capital, a knowledge of English trade, and vigorous and judicious advertising. He is of opinion that by entering this field, not only may we make large sales for English consumption, but, once fairly established upon the spot, quantities can be sold for export to the various nooks and corners of the world with which Great Britain trades, but which cannot be shipped from here for a want of the shipping and trade facilities which are alone possessed by that country. He holds that the time has fully arrived for American hardware, edge tools, stoves, &c., &c., to be largely sold in the markets of Great Britain for home consumption and for export, and he suggests that ten, fifteen or even twenty of our most extensive and wealthy manufacturers of such articles, in conjunction with Englishmen of capital who understand the trade, should establish in England a company of, say half a million of dollars, or more capital, under the English limited liability laws, which are extremely liberal in their provisions, and that this company should enter upon the sale of a full line of American goods of these descriptions. With judicious management, he affirms, a business of many hundreds of thousands of pounds per annum may be built up in the course of a very few years. In stoves alone an immense business may, in the immediate future, be done, the high price of coal rendering economy in its use at once necessary, and requiring the substitution of stoves for the open grates, long so popular in England. The high reputation of Mr. BAIRD as a shrewd observer and sound reasoner and thinker, entitle his suggestions on this, as on other subjects, to great respect. Our manufacturers would do well to examine the matter for themselves.

CAUSES AND CHARACTER OF GERMAN IMMIGRATION.

The mighty current of emigration which has been pouring, with increased volume during the last two years, from Germany into the United States, is one of the most interesting social and political phenomena of the time. And while much has been written on the subject of its causes and character, and almost every one feels able to discuss them, many of the current notions about it are vague and some of them contradictory. Certainly clearer, if not more abundant light upon it was needed, and it is therefore satisfactory to learn, through the Freiheit's Freund, that a Prussian functionary, Herr BOEDICKER, a government assessor, has treated the subject in a thorough manner, in an essay which has appeared in a periodical edited by the celebrated statistician ENGEL. The Freund of yesterday contained an interesting synopsis of Herr BOEDICKER's paper. The fact that the author is a Prussian official would by itself entitle his investigation to particular attention.

Of course the late war with France is specified as the great cause of increased emigration, which does not seem to Mr. BOEDICKER likely much to fall off. Emigration, it appears, has always been a consequence of war in Germany, and by questioning the emigrants one learns that the dread of more war is what impels so many who suffered in their families or their property, by the late conflict, to leave their homes. The Landwehrmann rescues his family and his goods, the mother her sons from prospective peril. Such convulsions also operate in another way; by disturbing the ordinary current of popular life, they produce a feeling of unrest, and predispose people to change of abode.

Not only the war and its direct effects, but progressive industrial development in Germany leads to emigration. Young men especially, in sight of fine opportunties of remunerative employment and of getting on in life, are keenly affected by the hardships of the three years' military service.

And still more powerful than these motives are the economical grounds of the movement. It is not only the destitute classes who emigrate, as appears clearly enough from the statistics of the subject. According to data thus derived a large portion of the emigrants may be distributed into the following classes:

1. Artisans of the small towns, forming on the average 5.26 per cent. of the aggregate emigration. These craftsmen are in Germany kept down by the great productive establishments of their respective trades. They can not get journeymen to work for them, since journeymen no longer visit the small towns. Nor are they able to pay such wages as assistants can obtain elsewhere. Material also constantly becomes dearer, while the town taxes constantly increase.

2. The second class consists of small landowners in the country, who in connection with renters and stewards or bailiffs, form 5.89 per cent. of the aggregate emigration. These small proprietors often cannot procure day laborers—"hands," as we say—to help them with their work, and when they can procure them, are able with difficulty to pay them. They also find the taxes ever more oppressive, and besides suffer from bad harvests.

3. The third class consists of journeymen, assistants and workers in manufactories who form on an average 12.291 per cent. of the aggregate emigration.

4. The fourth class consists of rural laborers, forming on average 28.321 per cent. of the emigration.

5. The fifth class is made up of domestics or servants, whether of small towns or the country, and includes day laborers. These form about 17.181 per cent. of the collective emigrants.

Referring to classes third, fourth and fifth, Herr BOEDICKER makes the remark that the lot of laborers in general is seen to improve as the observer proceeds from the East towards the West. Thus, he says, the Turkish and Russian laborer is more unfavorably situated than the German, and the German than the Belgian and the English, while the North American laborer is better off than any other. Of course, the prospect draws.

Powerful among the causes of emigration is the difficulty of finding a settlement in Germany, under one's own roof on one's own soil. For the classes concerned, this difficulty lies partly in the German legislation affecting the subject, but much more in the number and extent of the landed estates whose proprietors refuse to part with any portion. In each of the Eastern provinces of Prussia, with a single exception, more than half of the entire area consists of great estates, of more than three hundred acres. In Pomerania more than two-thirds of the land is thus divided, and these great estates are constantly growing larger by the consolidation of peasant farms. Hence the impossibility for many of obtaining land in their own country.

A PROPHECY.

In our issue of yesterday we gave a brief account of the plan by which, as many Frenchmen believe, or profess to believe, the Republic is soon to be overthrown. The essential features of the plan are the proclamation by the National Assembly of monarchy as the legal government of France, and the assumption of his royal position by the Duc de CHAMBORD as HENRY V. These and other details of the scheme were lately described by the Parisian journal, the Soir, as having been learned from the common talk of Legitimists and Orleanists. No doubt the scheme has been extensively discussed, as represented by the Soir, but whether it was ever seriously entertained as a plan of action is quite another question. A few days ago, in Paris, an immense sensation was created by a BONAPARTIST organ, the Gaulois, which ventured to predict the restoration of the empire as the consequence of the plan referred to. In its prophetic treatment of the subject the Gaulois adopted the style sometimes employed by the Hebrew prophets, and spoke of events to come as if they were already past. Having thus related the successive acts of the Assembly by which a Bourbon was again placed on the throne on the 18th of November, representing the vote as 341 against 302, and the Bonapartists as refusing to vote, the Seer stated that the first act of the new King was a limitation of universal suffrage, and that his government was extremely arbitrary, being absolute in the strictest sense of the word.

> "The Kings will was the only law. The people refused to pay the taxes which the Assembly had voted. In every part of the country revolts took place. In Paris the insurgents placed M. Thiers at their head. When they came to a barricade, a powerful fellow seized Thier's by the throat and placed him on the top of the barricade. 'Fire! you pack of rascals! The blood of Thiers will give life to the Republic!' A ball laid him dead. His corpse was dragged through the streets by the rabble to the cry of; 'Revenge!' Thousands of stories were at once circulated about the heroic death of M. Thiers. The rabble took possesion of Paris. Henry the Fifth abdicated. Marshal MacMahon was named Dictator. A few proposed the Duke of Aumale as Regent. The Duke of Nemours accompanied Henry the Fifth to Frohsdorf, where they took up their abode. The Count of Paris retired to Chantilly to wait for results. Marshal MacMahon had recourse to universal suffrage to ascertain the will of the people. The Empire received 5,700,000 votes; the Republic received 3,000,000, and the Orleanist monarchy received 500,000. The Empire was proclaimed, the Legitimists generally preferring it to an Orleans King, and the mass of the Republicans being satisfied since the Empire is only a peculiar form of the Republic. MacMahon went to Calais to receive Napoleon IV. The Empire, said the citizens of Paris, is the Republic with order and without the rascals.

Who can be sure that such things will not take place? At any rate, it is well to know that some Frenchmen profess to expect them.

THE mass meeting of colored men held at Baltimore a day or two ago, for the purpose of protesting against any attempt to organize a "Black Man's party," was really a magnificent demonstration, alike in numbers and enthusiasm. Resolutions were passed reaffirming the allegiance of the colored people to the Republican party and its principles, as enunciated in the Philadelphia platform; pledging their support to the party through whose instrumentality they enjoy the rights and privileges of American citizenship, and denouncing the originators of the race movement as individuals without a constituency, paid, controlled and encouraged by the Democratic Ring to embarrass colored Republicans, and sow within their lines the seeds of discord in order to defeat the Republican ticket at the ensuing elections—an arraignment which probably hits the nail squarely on the head. It is evident that the friends of humanity need have no fear for the fidelity of their colored fellow citizens.

GENERAL AND PARTICULAR.

SEPTEMBER.

Feathery clouds are few and fair,
Thistledown is on the air;
Rippling sunshine on the lake,
Wild grapes scent the sunny brake;
Dizzy songs the crickets sing,
Wild bees wander murmuring;
Butterflies float in a dream,
Over all the swallows gleam;
Here and yonder, high and low,
Golden-rod and sun-flowers glow;
Here and there a maple flushes,
Sumach reddens, woodbine blushes;
Purple asters bloom and thrive,
It is joy to be alive!

Balloon betting is current in the sporting circles of New York, but it is evident that the betting men don't believe in the success of The Graphic enterprise. The odds are overwhelming against it, and it is hard to find anybody who will risk anything on it. The balloon will start from Brooklyn. It is a splendid place to start from, provided you leave it early and never go back.

"Niagaravation" is the last invention, and, of course, had its invention in the fleecing propensities of the Falls people.

The Canada Indians are making rapid progress towards civilization. A young Son of the Forest near Ottawa recently killed his father.

The Maryland Agricultural and Mechanical Association will open their next annual exhibition at the fair ground in Baltimore on Tuesday, October 7. The exhibition will continue four days.

Hop growers are now engaged in picking their hops. Though of an excellent quality, the yield will not be over from one-half to two-thirds of a crop.

The Michigan Constitutional Commission is considering a proposition to submit the question of woman suffrage to a vote of the women of the State, who are to be duly registered for the purpose. No better way of disposing of that much-debated subject has been yet suggested.

The sums distributed to Southern schools for the last year, by the trustees of the Peabody Fund, amount to $130,990.

The Boston Globe has, it is said, sunk $80,000 since it was started, and is still far from being a financial success. There are rumors that its stockholders are becoming tired of the effort to establish another paper in Boston.

The apple crop of Vermont is a failure and the prohibitorory law is in force there, and still apple cider is plenty. The moral is one to be drawn, unlike the cider, exclusively by reformers.

The Supreme Court of Georgia decided lately that the law forbidding the validity of judgments for notes whose consideration was slaves is unconstitutional, and that, unless bound by the status of limitation, such judgments can be made operative.

The cranberry crops in New Jersey will be very high compared with last year. The berries have been scalded, and a number of bogs destroyed, while others will not yield more than one-fourth of a crop. It is estimated that the loss will reach half a million of dollars.

Chicago claims to be the metropolis of hotels, and says that within three months from this time the hotel accommodations of that city will be superior to those of any other city in America, and fully the equal of any city in the world.

A timber fall has occurred in Wisconsin, which is estimated to be three miles in width and from sixty to ninety miles in length. The engineers, in locating a railroad line through this mass of fallen timber, were obliged to walk on trees twenty feet from the ground. A large portion of the timber is first-class pine, and there is also considerable hard wood mixed with it.

Among the petrifications which have recently been dug out of the hard rock quarries near San Antonia, Texas, was a wasp nest very different from anything of the kind that the wasps are in the habit of manufacturing at the present time.

The cultivation of broom corn has been checked in the West by the cheapness of the article, so that farmers scarcely obtained prices sufficient to pay the expense of raising it. The late storms have also caused serious injury to the comparatively limited crop raised this year, resulting in an advance of nearly one hundred per cent. on the old stock on hand.

Cincinnati is still quarrelsome concerning the study of German in the public schools. Members of the Board of Education have endeavored to abolish the office of First Assistant in German, but without success. Opinion seems to be evenly divided for and against public instruction in that language.

A Washington paper proposes that a convention of reconstructed Southern women be held, to show plainly that Jeff. Davis's assertion that the ladies of that section are ready for another secession war, is a base slander, and it suggests that the first week in December, when Congress meets, would be an excellent time for such a gathering.

The reports of the fruit crop in the West show that a poor yield may be expected.

No cause celebre without a clairvoyant appears to be the order of the day. If this goes on we shall have a fortune-teller attached to every legal office, and an astrologer for the State at the elbow of the Attorney General.

The yellow pine, an invaluable building material for bridge and car work, is being rapidly thinned out in the south. No tree of this kind grows afterward where one is cut, but only a worthless scrub pine of another species. Those who now set out new plantations of these trees will eventually find them very valuable.

The pedagogues of New York are in a perturbed frame of mind. The Civil Rights bill passed by the last Legislature is about to be put in force there. One of its main provisions holds it a misdemeanor to exclude any colored person from the public schools, and a good deal of trouble is anticipated.

The City of Minneapolis has received from Mr. Charles Macalester, of Philadelphia, a gift of property worth $100,000 or more for educational purposes.

Yosemite Valley has had the best season this year, since the time it first came into notice as a noteworthy place for tourists to visit.

The extravagance of Chicago is remarkable, but this caps the climax. A Mr. Fernando Jones had a shirt seized by the Sheriff, and, at the sale, paid fifty-five dollars to regain possession of that article of wearing apparel.

Canada papers refer with pride to the continued success of the savings departments connected with their postoffices. Last year the amount of deposits was $2,306,918, and the cost of maintaining the banks has for the last five years averaged somewhat less than one-half of one per cent. on the balance to depositors' credit.

It appears now as if the long and trying ordeal through which Mexico has been called to pass is at last ended. The last flickering embers of the revolution have been extinguished; the country enjoys profound peace; the government is wisely administered; is strong in the confidence of the people, and is able to suppress any local disturbance that may occur. Meanwhile the country is making rapid progress in all directions.

The official returns of the hospitals of Paris show that of the 55,000 births in the city during the past year, 15,366 were illegitimate. The proportion of illegitimates to the number of inhabitants is not quite up to that of Vienna, which has 9,000 for one million inhabitants, whilst the population of Paris is nearly two millions.

There are 4,000 slaves at Quilos, East Africa, offered at from half a dollar to $3 each without finding a purchaser.

A patent has been granted in England for a process of producing gas very cheaply. The distillation is carried on at a low temperature instead of a high one, and the gas produced is claimed to be free from sulphur, fifty per cent. superior to ordinary gas in quality, and thirty per cent. superior in quantity.

PERSONAL.

A correspondent of the Chicago Times in a bitter personal attack upon Gen. John A. Logan, pays this tribute to the worth of Mrs. Logan, whose influence as a tactician it is conceded secured for her husband the Senatorial nomination from Illinois: "In many respects, and while she insists that she has no interest in politics and never interferes with political affairs, it is a notable fact that no public man in the Union owes more to a wife for his continued promotions than does John A. Logan. Mrs. Logan's whole ambition is in her husband's success. With all the tact, skill and courtesy of a prominent woman she combines the graces of a brilliant lady. She is pleasant, witty, shrewd, and has the rare power of being able to impress the rural legislator with the idea that she is on perfect familiarity with him, while at the same time she manages to so preserve her dignity as to keep constantly conscious of the fact that she is not a familiar acquaintance. Before one leaves Mrs. Logan's company, it is difficult to be wholly free from the enthusiasm with which she is filled concerning her husband."

If it is true, as reported, that James Parton intends to write the story of the life of Charles Dickens, we have an assurance of a biography of the novelist which will certainly be a better work of art than that which has been supplied by Mr. Dickens's friend, John Forster. Mr. Parton has a way of making his histories of individuals intensely interesting, by his method of arranging his materials, his good sense, and the clear, vigorous and elegant prose in which he presents them to the reader.

Specimen of western journalistic amenities. Mr. Phelps represents the Chicago Times at Joliet. The Republican of that place says: "Phelps knows just about as much about newspaper work as he does about law, and as much about law as a blind puppy. Nature made a great mistake in not giving him two more legs, and a few inches more to the length of his ears."

Rev. John Moore, who was reported by telegraph as having been arrested for horse stealing at Greenwich, Connecticut, and discharged the next day, is a Presbyterian clergyman in good standing. It appears that while on his way to the railroad station he was fired upon by a party of men who were watching for a burglar. He took them for robbers and ran; was pursued, shot at again, and overtaken, and was detained until morning, when he proved his identity.

A. T. Stewart has made the numerous devoted friends of the National University Law School especially anxious to hear of his death. He has inserted a clause in his will leaving a million to that institution.

William Morris, the English poet, author of the "Earthly Paradise," is the head of a London firm of designers of stained glass work, and carpet and wall-paper patterns. Some specimens of his workmanship in the latter line are displayed at the Cincinnati Exposition.

New England mayors do all sorts of extraordinary things. One of them recently distinguished himself by leaping from a horse car, preventing an assassination, and with his own hands taking into custody the would-be murderer. This municipal hero was Mayor Lewis, of New Haven, and certainly he deserves a memorial of some sort.

The Rev. Newman Hall, in bidding farewell to his congregation in London, prior to his departure for this country, said he proposes first to go to Niagara and rest awhile, and then to travel from city to city preaching the gospel, lecturing on teetotalism, and promoting, as far as he could, the bonds of brotherhood between the two nations.

At Lancaster, New Hampshire, Julia A. Miller, wife of George W. Miller, of that place, died recently. The local paper, in an obituary notice, gives the following particulars of her history: "She was the great-great-great-grandchild of King Philip, of early New England fame. Her great grandfather on her mother's side was Mettalue, chief of the St. Francis, or Abanaka, tribe of Indians, whose hunting grounds were in the region of the Magallaway. Her grandmother, the daughter of Mettalue, and her husband, an English-American, are still living. Mrs. Miller could speak and read the Indian tongue, and often entertained her friends by singing hymns in Indian, translations probably made by French missionaries for the use of the above named tribe. It will be seen that this estimable lady was of royal blood, the lineal descendent of one of the bravest of kings. Massasoit, the father of Philip, was, too, one of the most faithful of men. A woman of queenly character, cultured by varied opportunity and experience, she was greatly valued and loved by husband and friends."

The Symptoms of Health.

Health has its symptoms as well as disease. The clear eye, the fresh complexion, the steady hand, the firm step, the unclouded brain, briskness of spirits, and a disposition to look on the bright side of anything, are indications that the animal machinery is in perfect working order. Happy are they whose running gear of life is in this excellent condition, and fortunate too are they who know how to bring it into such a condition if disarranged. All who have experienced or witnessed the effect of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters upon the weak, broken down, desponding victims of dyspepsia, liver complaint, fever and ague, rheumatism, nervous debility, or premature decay, know that in this supreme tonic and alterative there exists a specific principle which reaches the very source of the trouble and effects an absolute and permanent cure. E Pluribus Unum might aptly be inscribed on the label, for the preparation is a plurality of remedies condensed into one irresistible antidote.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

FRIDAY EVENING, September 5, 1873.

The condition of the gold premium excites more interest than any other feature of the market, not only on account of the future of gold itself, but on account of the effect it will have on the loan market.

The precarious condition of gold is shown in the varying rates for carrying. Yesterday at the opening 1-16 was paid for use, changed to flat, and then ran up as high as 7 per cent. for carrying, which shows that the clique have the power of making a squeeze for cash gold at any time.

In order to get gold to cover contracts many operators have resorted to borrowed bills of exchange, the large amount of which seeking purchasers has demoralized the foreign exchange market, sixty day bills selling down to 107, a figure at which it will pay to bring gold from England to this country. Should such an event happen, the Bank of England will undoubtedly put up her rates, as she did in the spring, in order to draw gold from this country to her vaults. On this subject one of our exchanges says:

"The cost to a borrower who supplies himself with gold through the medium of sterling bills may be estimated approximately, and is shown to be much less than the aggregate of daily rates likely to prevail for the use of gold during the ensuing two months. Thus the borrower of sterling must pay a commission of ¼ per cent. for its use, equal to 1½ per cent. per annum. He must cover the sixty-day bill at maturity with a slight exchange, which would cost (assuming rates of exchange not to vary), at an enhanced rate equivalent to 4 per cent. per annum. Even admitting that rates of exchange advance one per cent. by time of settlement, the total cost to the borrower is made only 14½ per cent. per annum. A severe blow would be dealt the gold clique if all borrowers would adopt the course of making loans on time, instead of renewing them from day to day."

Operators here as well as in New York are interested in the new rules proposed for the government of the Stock Exchange. The plan of buying and selling "for account" is modeled on the English system and especially applicable to speculative contracts. The limitation of losses to a fixed amount for a fixed period will protect operators within the usual limit of margins. We quote the new rules as follows:

In addition to present methods of buying and selling stock members may buy and sell "for account." The first and fifteenth of each month shall be settling days for all transactions "for account." Whenever the regular settling-day occurs on Sunday or any legal holiday, it shall be deferred to the next regular business day. (1) Each new account shall commence three business days prior to the first and fifteenth of each month. Interest on accounts running three days or over shall accrue to the seller at the rate of six per cent. per annum, to be calculated by days according to bank usage. Mutual deposits, if called for by either buyer or seller, shall be made according to provisions of article twenty-four, of by-laws. (2) In case of default on part of any seller "for account" to satisfy his contract with purchaser by two o'clock of settling day, the purchaser shall proceed to have the stock bought in according to provisions of article twenty-five of by-laws, it being conditioned, however, that the Officer of the Board shall close the contract at a difference of ten per cent. from sale price, without interest calculation, unless he can buy at or within that limit.

Note 1. The object of having the new account commence three days prior to closing of old account is to furnish sufficient time, at periods of great speculative activity, for renewal contracts or offsets prior to final settlings.

Note 2. The object of the limitation clause is to prevent sudden and unnatural fluctuations, technically called "corners," the effects of which are disastrous to the general business of the Stock Exchange, and, in ultimate results, generally as disastrous to those organizing them as to their victims. Reference to quotations of stocks for a long series of years will show that the average range is much less than ten per cent. every fifteen days, and that the limitation clause would be precautionary rather than of frequent use.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, FRIDAY, September 5, 1873.

REMARKS.—Owing to the uniform rates of the market, we deem it useless to occupy space with extended speculations as to the future of trade. As changes of importance occur they will be duly reported.

So far as leading articles, such as bacon, groceries, flour, grain, cheese, etc., are concerned, they show no quotable change. In the produce market the usual fluctuations occur, as trade is governed by the supply, demand and quality of the goods on sale.

We may here remark, by way of closing, that all the signs of the times point to an early opening of the fall trade, and the opinion of all interested is, that it will be large beyond precedent.

Below will be found the wholesale rates of the market, unless special mention is made to the contrary:

WEEKLY REVIEW OF THE PIG IRON AND BLOOM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, SATURDAY, September 6, 1873.

REMARKS.—The business for the week in raw irons has been light. Receipts continue liberal. Increasing inquiry is making by consumers preparatory to a resumption of operations. Stocks of raw iron, although not heavy, are fully equal to any favorable early demand. The mills generally have very light stocks on hand, and scarcely any contracted ahead. Things can't remain in this situation much longer, and when this market does open, lively times may be expected. Bar iron remains unchanged. Nails, since our last issue, have been reduced 37½ cents per keg. This movement will, no doubt, cause an improved demand and an active market.

The sales reported were as follows:

Bituminous Coal Smelted from Lake Superior Ore.

200 tons gray forge	$34 00—4 mos.
100 tons, a mixed lot	33 00—4 mos.

IRON MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

September 3.—Scotch pig moves slowly, the demand being still very light; the recent advances abroad have had the tendency to make holders rather firmer, but, in the absence of any special demand, prices are without material change; we quote Eglinton $43a44; Glengarnock $44a45; Gartsherrie $47 75a48 00, and Coltness $50a51; we have no sales to report. American pig is steady at about our quotations; for No 2 X Lehigh brands $40 is asked, but outside brands can be had as low as $36a38; sales about 1,500 tons at $42a45 for No 1; $36a40 for No 2, and $33 for gray forge. New rails are without further business; we quote English $65a68 gold, and American $75a77 currency, at the works in Pennsylvania. The stock of old English is not large, and holders are not inclined to mention prices; we quote D H nominally at $47, and T at $46. Scrap is quiet, most dealers asking an advance on $43a45 for No 1 wrought. Messrs. Wetmore & Co., agents for Burdens, Troy, under date of 1st inst., quote "H B & S," ordinary sizes bar, round and square and flats, at $97 50—extra sizes, round and square, $102 50a107 50; flats $102 50a117 50; ovals $115a130; half ovals, ⅜ and 9-16 to ¾ and over, $120a135, and half rounds, same sizes, $115a130, net cash, being a reduction of $12 50 per ton from the quotations of December 2, 1872, and $25 reduction from the prices of a year ago. "Burdens best" is the same as quoted December 2 last.—Commercial List.

CLEVELAND.

September 3.—The hardware business has been active during the week, and prices have been steady. Iron remains nominally at $3 40. Nails we reduce to $4 35, and tin plate to $13 50 ₩ box, regular. Other articles unchanged.

The pig iron market continues fairly active, the demand, however, being principally for immediate consumption. Prices, although no higher, are on a more substantial basis, and there is less inclination to make concessions than was apparent thirty days since. Only a few foundries in this market have laid in their stocks at present prices. Many express opinion that the market will go still lower, while others answer with the query, "How can it?" There appears to be a little approaching activity in mill circles. Thirty dollars a ton cash for 1,000 tons close gray and mottled was offered last week and refused. Scotch pig has dropped materially, acting in sympathy with foreign quotations. There is a large quantity in this market, however, held firm at high prices.

Quotations are nominally as follows:

REMARKS.—We have nothing new nor interesting to furnish the reader with regard to the oil trade. Refined is reported a shade firmer, whilst crude rules quiet at unchanged prices. PITTSBURGH LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Cattle.

The run of cattle since our last report has been fair of through and light of way stock. The general quality of the arrivals is common with a few exceptions. Most of the buyers have gone East, and as is usually the case at the last of the week trade drags some. Prices are not much changed, though some sellers have made slight concessions in order to close out consignments, and escape the expenses, such as feed bills, which would necessarily attend the holding of stock over till next week. Very few good cattle on sale, and a better demand for them has ruled for some weeks. A drove of prime Illinois steers sold at $6 40 ₩ 100 lbs, average weight 1,400 lbs. Some dealers assert a bunch of really choice would bring 6½c, which is about ¼c more than anything would have brought two weeks ago. Most everything sold, and trade closes moderately firm at about the following prices:

Extra 1,400 to 1,500 lbs steers, fine and smooth, $6 50; extra 1,300 lbs steers, fine and smooth, $5 75 to $6 25; prime 1,200 lbs steers, fine and smooth, $5 25 to $5 50; fair 1,100 lbs steers, fine and smooth, $4 75 to $5 15; fair 1,000 lbs, $4 25 to $4 50; common light grassers $3 50 to $4 00; bulls, $2 50 to $3 00.

Hogs.

The receipts of hogs continue fair. Market continues about the same as at the time of our last report. Prime Philadelphia sell the best. Grassers dull and selling at low prices.

The demand is some short of the supply and trade is rather dragging. The market closes this evening at about the following figures:

Extra Philadelphia, $5 00; prime Philadelphia, $4 80 to $4 90; prime light hogs, $4 65 to $4 85; grassers, $4 25 to $4 50.

Sheep.

The run of sheep as is usually the case at the last of the market was light. Trade is slow, except for prime stock, for which there is the best demand. Not much doing in the pens to-day, and most of the buyers have gone East. Stock pretty well shipped out. Trade closes at the following figures:

Extra 100 lbs, $5 50; extra 95 lbs, $5 25 to $5 45; prime 90 lbs, $5 00; fair 85 lbs, $5 00; common, $3 75 to $4 50.

New York Finance and Trade.

Gold Closed at 114⅜.

NEW YORK, September 5, 1873—4 P. M.

The settlement of the Geneva award by Great Britain, and the final payment by France to Germany on account of the war indemnity, occurred today. The final payment on account of the Geneva award was one million dollars, of which $239,740 was paid in called bonds, and the balance in gold. These two important events attracted much attention in financial circles to-day.

EXCHANGE.

Sterling firmer and higher at 7⅞ for sixty days, 8⅞ for sight. Customs receipts to-day $413,000.

GOLD.

Weak and feverish, declining from 115⅛ to 114⅜, amid considerable excitement. It is said that Gould has been a free seller of gold all the week, and that he will lock up money by retiring the currency proceeds. Loans were from 1 to 4 per cent. for carrying and flat for borrowing. Clearings $98,-000,000. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $100,000.

MONEY.

Active all day at 7a7 per cent., with a sudden jump near the close of bank hours to 1-16, but one of Vanderbilt's brokers offering to loan $500,000 on New York Central, Lake Shore or Western Union at 7 per cent. the price broke down, and money was freely offered at 7 per cent. without any demand.

GOVERNMENTS.

Governments weak and lower in sympathy with gold. The asking prices were higher than those offered, and dealings in consequence were small.

STOCK EXCHANGE.

There has been great weakness to-day in what are known as the Gould stocks, viz: St. Pauls, which declined 1a1½ respectively for preferred and common; Hannibal and St. Joseph, which fell off 2½ per cent, and Northwestern common, which declined 1 per cent. The street is alive with rumors to the effect that the Gould party is in trouble; that Gould has transferred his property to his wife, and that the Northwest common clique are quarreling. Remarks were circulated of the failure of a leading operator in stocks and gold, but nothing positive could be learned in reference to the report. The other stocks were comparatively steady, and the market closed heavy with the Vanderbilt and Pacific Mail parties actively sustaining their favorites.

MONONGAHELA—Two feet six inches and falling.

Boats Departing this Day.

Geneva......West Virginia......Donaldson, 7 A. M.

THE marks last evening indicated two feet six inches and falling. The weather during the day was quite pleasant.

THE wharf is bare of freight and passenger steamers.

THE towboat Mary Davage, thoroughly repaired at McKeesport, was towed to the city by the John Hanna.

THE punctual packet West Virginia, Capt. P. Donaldson, takes her departure this day, at 7 A. M., for Brownsville and Geneva. Passengers will bear this in mind.

McFALL, the celebrated California boat builder, is building two model barges for Commodore Gray, 165 feet long, 28 feet beam, and 6½ feet hold. They will be completed the first week in October.

THE steamer Granite State, Capt. Kerr, was detained yesterday making repairs to her machinery. She was to leave at daylight this morning. She was crowded with passengers on her upward trip.

RATES on cotton from Shreveport to New Orleans, $1 00 a bale; cattle, $4 00 a head; up freights from New Orleans, card rates of 1873. Passage, $20 00. Passage from Shreveport to St. Louis, $35 00; to Memphis, $30 00.

THE Huntsville, sunk below Shreveport, in Red river, several days ago, was insured in Cincinnati as follows: Eureka, $1,500, Farmers, Merchants and Manufacturers, $1,500; Franklin, $1,000; Burnet, $1,000.

PILOT WILLIAM RANDOLPH writes to R. G. Shinkle that the Hornet No. 2 will leave St. Louis on Thursday, with three barges of iron ore for the Ohio river, each drawing four feet. At Grand Tower she will pick up one empty barge, and at Elizabethtown three.

IN Thompson's bend, just below Dog Tooth and above Cairo, something hard lays in the bottom of river directly in the channel where steamboats usually pass. It is a log snag, or obstruction of some dangerous kind, and pilots should be cautious or they will hit it. We understand that several boats have already rubbed it in passing.

THURSDAY'S Cincinnati Enquirer says: The James Gilmore passed up for Pittsburgh yesterday with a tow of iron ore. Tice Ridenhour was one of her pilots from here.

The barge line hence to Carrollton and the Kentucky river has suspended operations until the Hiram Campbell comes off the ways. Captain Barrett says she will be ready to resume business on Monday.

CINCINNATI.—The transfer of the Sam J. Hale is recorded at the Custom House as follows: Sam J. Hale sells ⅛, Thompson Dean ⅛, and W. B. Miller ⅛, to John N. Shunk ⅛, Tiff Strider ⅛, P. C. Brown ⅛, and James S. Wise ⅛, for $8,500.

William Nelson, an old pilot, who has been engaged about the oil regions for the past seven years, has returned to this city to reside.

COUSHATTA bar is the shoalest place between Shreveport and the mouth of Red river, and it has four and a half feet over it. From Shreveport to Jefferson there is less than thirty inches. Yazoo river is low, and only navigable for light draft steamers, while the Sunflower is down to eight inches. The little steamer Frank Beck in the latter, and the Yazoo in the former, are about the only boats now able to run and do business.

CAPTAIN ROBERT G. FERGUSON writes from Smithland, by authority of Inspector Drewry, desiring that the attention of pilots and steamboatmen be called to the following: "The gap in Cumberland Dam is now being filled with rock, and its passage by steamers cannot but be attended with danger. On the Smithland side of the island there is five and a half feet water at the head and foot, and the channel at the head of the island is straight and clear of logs between the island and the wreck of the Robert Moore. At the foot the channel is between the towhead and the island, and the marks to run in are the head of the high timber on the towhead and steamboat landing at New Liberty."

THE last number of the Big Sandy Herald says: "Last week we announced the sale of the city wharfboat, but immediately upon its removal R. K. Price had another boat in her place temporarily; but we learn that he has purchased an excellent wharfboat in Huntington, which will be here before this sees light, ready for business at the city wharf. Saturday night a thief by the name of Hannon, recently from Ironton, succeeded in opening the door of the wharf-boat at the city wharf, entered the bedroom in which Captain R. K. Price was sleeping, and notwithstanding a light was burning at the time, succeeded in getting the Captain's pants, in which was about one hundred dollars, and also his boots."

THE St. Louis Democrat says: "The Missouri River Packet Company intend to order built at an early day two boats for the machinery of the steamer St. Luke and Mountaineer. These are serviceable boats, but the company is determined that all their stock shall be fresh and first class.

"Captain Wm. Gray will remain here till the Ironsides' repairs are completed. She was taken on the ways on Friday to be thoroughly caulked. She will receive new guards, new roof, and new wheel, and be painted thoroughly inside and out. She will, when completed, take a tow of ore loaded barges to Pittsburgh. There is a vast quantity of ore now awaiting shipment. Gray has eleven barges ready to load. There is not a cent of ore on Gray's barges en route; all has been delivered at destination.

THE GREAT BRIDGE AT ST. LOUIS.—The St. Louis Democrat makes the following announcement: The crowds of curious people who daily throng the levee to witness the progress of the bridge are aware that the work is steadily creeping forward. We are gratified to be able to state, on the authority of the officers of the bridge, that within the past few days an agreement has been signed by the contractors pledging themselves, under forfeitures, to complete the spans of the bridge by the 1st of January next, and also to finish both roadways—the lower for railroad traffic and the upper for vehicles and foot passengers—by from thirty to sixty days after the 1st of January. Thus it will be seen that the bridge will be completed, beyond peradventure, by the 1st of March next at the latest.

IN a metaphorical sense the true old adage that "it never rains but it pours," has been fully sustained by a succession of sudden and unexpected disasters by flood and field, with which the Western country has recently been afflicted. These numerous accidents, which, seemingly, as it were, comes in cycles, might well claim the attention of scientists, a number of whom have already asserted, with apparent grounds of truth, that they are the result of some hidden law which causes them to follow clockwise in rapid succession. The minds of learned savants might be profitably employed in an attempt to solve the mystery in which the subject is shrouded, for the half dozen steamers that have been wrecked and lost within the past few weeks on our Western rivers, and the dozen or more of railway accidents that have occurred during the same period, to say nothing of the human lives destroyed, call out for some explanation by which the general public can, if possible, understand what remedy may be applied to save themselves and their property from future disaster. The laws of the country, and the practical knowledge of experienced men, have utterly failed to frame proper safeguards, and now theorists should try their hand.—Memphis Avalanche.

Political.

As will be seen by our report of the doings of the Executive Committee of the Temperance Alliance yesterday, the Democratic and Temperance parties have united upon a ticket. As indicating a further combination, we may state that the candidates on the Democratic ticket and those of the Labor Reform party, it is reported, will meet on Monday evening next, in English's building, Fourth avenue, to "fix things."

Preaching by Dr. Presltey.

The church building formerly occupied by the Union Baptist congregation has been secured for the services conducted by Dr. James Prestley. Services will be held at the new place on to-morrow (Sunday) at ten and half A. M. and three P. M. At the afternoon service, Dr. Prestley, by special request, will repeat the sermon he delivered last Sunday, taken from the parable of the prodigal son.

Allegheny Surveys.

The Survey Committee of Allegheny Councils held a meeting last evening, but did little business of importance. An ordinance was ordered to be prepared providing for the opening of Charles street.

A resolution was adopted providing for a sub-committee to confer with the Uniondale Cemetery Company relative to the opening of a street through the property of the company.

It was decided to report adversely to the opening of Hamilton street.

The Clark-McCully Case.

The cross-examination of Robert D. Clark, before Register Gray, was resumed yesterday. Nothing new was elicited. Mr. Clark stated that Mr. Cowan knew nothing about the amount of money that was to be stipulated in the "bond of friendship." Mr. Cowan stated that the paper was good, as a testamentary writing. Mr. Clark never said anything at all to Mr. McCully about the conversation with Mr. Cowan. McCully, when conversing on the bond question, always mentioned the fact of his indorsements on Clark's paper, but witness did not think Mr. McCully meant the bond to be a protection against these indorsements.

Presentation to Col. Lawrence.

Col. J. J. Lawrence, Superintendent of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, was presented with a beautiful gold chain and cross, yesterday afternoon, at the Masonic Bank, by some of his Knights Templar friends. It will be remembered that a number of Knights Templar, attracted to the city by the dedication of the new Temple on Penn avenue, participated in an excursion to Chautauqua Lake, over the Allegheny Valley Railroad. The excursionists were treated so kindly by Colonel Lawrence, that they resolved to make him some present as a testimonial of their appreciation of his kind offices. This determination was carried into effect in the manner above indicated. The compliment was highly appreciated by the recipient of the gift.

The Supposed Murder.

Since the last meeting of the Coroner's inquest now investigating the death of James M. Wright, a young man named James Park has communicated with officer John Moessner, stating that he is the boy referred to by Mr. Paul in his evidence. Park was formerly in the city employ at the Diamond Market House, and is now employed in Brown's rolling mill. His statement, according to Mr. Moessner, does not agree entirely with that of Mr. Paul.

He states that he procured the wagon in which the deceased was conveyed to his home, while Mr. Paul testifies that he simply told the deceased he could get a wagon for half a dollar, and that finally a man, engaged in hauling stone, gave the use of his wagon. He also states that he was an entire stranger to the deceased, but the witness Paul testifies that he remarked that Jim had another of his spells, and that he was subject to them.

The Opening at the University.

We are glad to announce that at no former time has the advance in the attendance at this institution, as compared with a corresponding term of a previous year, equaled the percentage of the present week. This has been especially marked in the higher departments, though by no means confined to them. Young men, well advanced in a general line of studies, have come in to avail themselves of the courses in science or the higher classics. This is an item of more than passing interest; it concerns the general community fully as much as the institution whose full instatement in the public confidence it argues. The one thing needed here for our youth is a spirit of generous emulation in the higher arts and the culture of life. They are bound to learn how to make money; the great matter is to have them learn its true value, and the higher value of a noble manhood. Crowd the halls of such institutions as the Western University with eager students, and there will be no danger of our degenerating into a community of sordid misers, vulgarly ostentatious spendthrifts or abandoned profligates.

Non-Episcopal Methodism

The Non-Episcopal Methodist Conference reassembled yesterday morning.

The President announced the first business was the selection of a permanent President for the ensuing year.

The following names were then suggested: Rev. J. H. Hull, Rev. Henry Palmer, Rev. John Cowl, Rev. E. A. Brindley.

Rev. Hull was declared elected, and on taking the Chair addressed the Conference in a happy strain.

The salary of the President was then fixed at $1,500 per annum.

Brother A. D. Brown was on motion appointed Assistant Secretary.

Rev. Brindley moved the order of the day be taken up, which was place of meeting for the next annual Conference.

Agreed to.

Brother Roberts suggested Connellsville, Fayette county.

Brother Shearer nominated Wellsburg, West Virginia.

After a discussion the nominations were closed.

The Conference then balloted with the following results:

Connellsville....45
Wellsburg....12

Brother Roberts then moved the time for the next Conference be fixed for the first Wednesday of September, 1874, which was agreed to.

Rev. J. B. Lucas announced that there would be a "grove prayer meeting" held in the grove at Castle Shannon on Sabbath next at 3 P. M., which would be conducted by the ministers of this Conference.

Rev. Dr. Wm. Collier, of Connellsville, Chairman of the Committee on Education, was then introduced, and read a very able report on the schools of our country as bearing upon religion. The report closed with a resolution pledging the continued support to the church College at Adrian, Michigan.

The report was received and the resolution adopted.

Rev. J. B. Walker, traveling agent of the College was then introduced, and gave a statement of the condition of the institution.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

The last opportunities to see the great sensational drama of the day, "The Prairie Scouts," with Ned Buntline, Dashing Charlie, Arizona Frank, the real, live Indians, and the seas of gore which these people shed during the progress of the play, will be afforded this afternoon and evening. As a theme for study it is first-class.

On Monday evening next the regular dramatic season at the Opera House will be inaugurated, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence being the opening stars. The play chosen for the initiatory performance is "Eileen Oge, or, Dark's the Hour Before the Dawn." These parties deserve well at the hands of the Pittsburgh public, having commenced in an humble way, in this city, the career which has led them to fame and fortune.

Aims's American Theater.

Two performances will be given at this theater today, matinee and evening. At each the whole company will appear in a melange of novelties well worth any one's while to hear.

Trimble's Varieties.

Stage Manager Williams has prepared excellent bills for the matinee and this evening's performances. They will embrace a great many acts in the variety line, and a sensational drama.

The Academy—Black Crook.

The redecoration and renovation of the Academy is now complete, and the auditorium presents a very handsome and inviting appearance. On Monday next Bidwell & McDonough's combination will appear on the Academy stage in the "Black Crook." During the summer solstice they have had prepared the most beautiful new costumes and properties, and the very best company attainable has been engaged. A. M. Hernandez, the funniest musical genius of the age, helps to fill up the gaps with his inimitable performances. Jennie Benson, a remarkably agile dancer, is another of the specialties, as is also Baby Benson, the "child wonder." Young America, Arthur Hernandez and Walter Leonard are also of the company. M'lle. Eugenia Lupo and M. Baptistine will lead the ballet troupe, which is very large. The transformation scene is the grandest yet offered. The sale of seats is going on rapidly at the Academy box office.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

U. S. District Court—Judge McCandless.

Wm. J. Meek filed a petition for the adjudication in bankruptcy of Thomas Moore, of Westmoreland county. The usual order to show cause was issued.

In the case of P. S. Babcock et al. vs. Amos H. Mills, of Susquehanna county, an order was made restraining C. C. Mills from interfering with debtor's property pending motion for injunction, to be argued on the 11th inst., at Williamsport.

In the matter of Messimer & Backus vs. James M. Lambing, of Armstrong county, the hearing of motion for injunction adjourned to the 11th inst.

In the matter of Frank Roads, of Northumberland county, bankrupt, a rule was granted on Messrs. Huffman and Mullen, of Sunbury, to show cause why they should not pay over to the assignee money in their hands, alleged to belonging to bankrupt's estate.

Quarter Sessions—Judge Stowe.

Hugh Gallagher was tried on an indictment for misdemeanor under the livery act, Wm. M. Duncan appearing as prosecutor. It was alleged that the accused damaged a buggy which was hired from the deponent, to the extent of twelve dollars. A verdict of not guilty was rendered, the defendant to pay the costs.

Patrick Finley was placed on trial on an indictment charging him with larceny and receiving stolen goods, on oath of John Rinaldi. The stolen property consisted of gentleman's wearing apparel. The jury found a verdict of guilty, in manner and form as indicted, with recommendation to mercy.

Hugh M. Bole plead nol contendere to an indictment charging him with assault and battery on oath of Mary Joyce.

John A. Kohrsen, indicted for selling liquor to minors, on oath of John Irwin, was acquitted, but directed to pay the costs. A nolle pros was allowed on payment of costs by the defendant in a case of selling liquor without license.

William H. Karns was then placed on trial on an indictment for larceny, founded on the oath of Jas. Ward. The parties are brakesmen on the Pan Handle Railroad, and the prosecutor charged that the defendant relieved him of a pocket-book containing six dollars. From the prosecutor's statement it appears that the offense was committed in Fairview, Ohio. The case is on trial.

PETROLEUM GAS.

The Wonderful Invention of Mr. Gearing.

Success Practically Demonstrated.

The Pennsylvania Gas Light Company.

The Works at Sharpsburg—Some of the Advantages Gained—The Cost of Coal Gas and Petroleum Gas Compared—A Wide Field for Profitable Investment.

The process for manufacturing illuminating gas from crude petroleum, pine tar, or other hydro-carbon liquids, invented and patented by Mr. Charles Gearing, of this city, is one of the most important achievements of the present day. Mr. Gearing has devoted years of labor, and spent large sums in perfecting his invention, and is now giving practical demonstration to the world that he has wrought out the simplest and cheapest method yet devised for supplying towns, and cities as well as individuals and firms, with a perfectly safe and pure gas. The experimental tests made by Mr. Gearing, on the South Side, were mentioned in the COMMERCIAL some months since, and attracted much attention, not only among business men and capitalists, but also among those interested in scientific and mechanical progress. It was apparent to those competent to form an intelligent opinion as to the merits of the invention, that Mr. Gearing had added one more to the many valuable scientific achievements of the age, and in a pecuniary point of view had "a good thing" in his hands. Hence his experiments were watched with interest, and every detail was carefully scrutinized. Many a man, before Mr. Gearing's time, who had aimed to accomplish some grand result, and had demonstrated its feasibility in a theoretical way, had utterly failed when the test of practical operation was applied. The world has become familiar with these failures, and men of science are slow to believe even their own senses when a new and wonderful development is made to them. Capitalists and business men are even more chary in lending aid to enterprises based upon the conjectures of inventors. It is not strange, therefore, that Mr. Gearing's experiments have been the subject of doubt, and that comparatively few, even to-day, have implicit faith in it.

THE PENNSYLVANIA GAS LIGHT COMPANY.

A few of our citizens early interested themselves in the invention, and having become thoroughly convinced, from what they had seen, that there was scarcely a possibility of failure, set about the organization of a company for the purpose of bringing the process fully before the public, and introducing the new method of manufacturing gas wherever it was desired. These, generally, finally organized under the name of the "Pennsylvania Gas Light Company," and on the third of the present month the stockholders met and elected the following officers and directors:

President—Charles Gearing.
Secretary and Treasurer—George M. Irwin.
Directors—Charles Gearing, Jared M. Brush, Geo. M. Irwin, Charles Wolters, A. A. Milligan, S. B. Row, R. J. Powers and Wm. C. Davidson.

This company have ample capital, ability and energy to push forward the business, and to bring the process into general use. The introduction of this new and simple method of manufacturing illuminating gas bids fair to be rapid and successful. They already have inquiries from many parts of this country, as well as from Europe, as to the success of the experiments, showing that it is only necessary to demonstrate the utility of the invention in order to secure its introduction in all parts of the United States, and in foreign countries.

THE PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION.

Some time since, the contiguous boroughs of Sharpsburg and Etna, located on the Allegheny river, a few miles above this city, and embracing a population of about 4,550, were supplied with gas separate works having been erected for that purpose. Recently these works were purchased by the Pennsylvania Gas Light Company, as affording an excellent opportunity for testing the Gearing process. In some of the details, particularly in the matter of service mains, it would have been better if the company had started new; but they took these works as they found them, constructed an apparatus, and are now supplying these corporations with an excellent quality of petroleum gas. The main building is a small, one story brick, but is much larger than required by the new apparatus, which only occupies a space six feet wide by eight feet long. An ordinary boiler for the generation of steam, and the retorts with a furnace underneath, constitute the machinery. There is a gas holder outside, with a capacity of 11,000 cubic feet. A small tank, capable of holding a few barrels of crude oil, is placed upon an elevated platform outside the wall of the building, and from this the oil is conveyed to the retorts, where it is mixed with dry steam and superheated air, and converted into gas. The gas is then conducted through pure water, relieved of all impurity, and conveyed to the holder, from whence it is distributed to consumers. As there is not a particle of residuum, or tar, generated in this process, the gas is remarkably free from extraneous matter of every kind, and the water through which it is passed shows but little discoloration.

A reporter of the COMMERCIAL visited these works yesterday, and, through the courtesy of Mr. Gearing, had the entire operation explained. The results since the works have been put in operation, have greatly exceeded the expectations of the inventor. No less than 12,000 cubic feet of gas were manufactured from one barrel (forty-four gallons) of crude petroleum! Oil from Parker's Landing is now being used. The inventor guaranteed to make 8,000 cubic feet from a barrel of oil, but the results of yesterday showed that he had greatly exceeded that quantity—a fact as surprising as it was gratifying.

The daily consumption is about 10,000 feet, but it will exceed this considerably in the winter months. The holder can be filled in about seven hours, so that 30,000 feet per day can be supplied by the apparatus if necessary.

By a practical test made by several disinterested parties some time ago, it was found impossible to "freeze out" this gas, with the thermometer at fifteen degrees below zero, which temperature was kept for five hours without making any change in the brilliancy of the gas.

At several points in the borough inquiry was made as to the quality of the gas, the regularity of the service, &c., and there was but one response—every one was pleased and satisfied. There is not only a good supply, but the whiteness and brilliancy of the flame are especially observable. In a word, the invention has passed beyond the point of experiment, and has demonstrated itself a complete success.

SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES GAINED.

The advantages resulting from Mr. Gearing's invention are not easily estimated, so greatly do they ramify. It would require much thought and study to trace them out. A few of the more prominent may be noticed. One of the greatest is the cheapness with which gas can be manufactured. It is well known that Pittsburgh gas is the cheapest in the world, because of our proximity to the best gas producing coal beds in the world. And yet, the Pennsylvania Gas Light Company can manufacture a better illuminator, from petroleum oil, than can be produced from Youghiogheny coal, AT SIXTY PER CENT. LESS COST! Of course, the price of oil and coal must be taken into account. But with oil at four dollars per barrel, the petroleum gas can be made at less than the cost of coal gas at the present price of coal.

While this great advantage can be made to accrue in Allegheny county, where coal is so abundant, it becomes still greater in those sections of the country where gas coal is dear, owing to the cost of transportation. A car load of coal, containing eleven tons, will make 90,000 cubic feet of gas, while a car load of oil will produce 500,000 feet, thus saving immensely in the item of transportation.

In the matter of labor, there is great economy. Only one man is employed in the Sharpsburg works, and he has not much labor to perform. A single man can operate works large enough to supply 40,000 feet per day; and the instruction necessary can be imparted in a few hours. Such a thing as leaving a city in darkness, by a strike, could not occur.

Another advantage consists in this: That the retorts can be heated by gas from the works, instead of coal, thus decreasing the labor; and where coal is scarce or dear, saving largely in the item of fuel. Some of the oil men use gas under their steam boilers and stills, in the same way, and understand the process, as well as its economy.

Companies organized for the manufacture of gas by this process, can put up their works at about one-fifth the cost of coal gas works; and, when constructed, the cost of keeping them in running order is correspondingly economical. Works erected for the manufacture of coal gas can be adapted to the use of the petroleum process for about five per cent. of the orginal cost.

These are a few of the advantages; and, while the gas companies organized under the patent will probably realize the lion's share, yet the public cannot fail to secure substantial benefits from the invention. There is a growing restiveness all over the country under the oppressions of gas monopolies, and the insolence of their officers, which only awaits a fair opportunity to develop into active hostility. This invention will place a wholesome check upon any old corporation disposed to deal unjustly with the public, because it makes competition possible, at a comparatively small outlay in capital. The chief gain to the public, however, will be in securing the best illuminator at the lowest cost. The development of petroleum oil seems to be yet in its infancy, while sage men are already calculating the time when our immense coal deposits will be used up. May it not be possible that petroleum is yet to rule as King, when the scepter has departed from old King coal? Mr. Gearing, by his skill, has rendered it possible to light the world without coal. Some other genius will yet heat our houses and drive our machinery without the aid of this now indispensable product; and when our hills no longer yield either anthracite or bituminous, the world will move on as before. Mr. Gearing and the Pennsylvania Gas Light Company may therefore be playing a much more important part in the world's history than they have yet dreamed. Certain it is, that the invention opens a new use for petroleum at a very opportune time, now that the production is increasing at so rapid a rate. Every public spirited citizen will congratulate Mr. Gearing on his achievement, and will wish the Pennsylvania Gas Light Company a degree of success commensurate with the merit of their enterprise.

Persons at a distance can address inquiries to the Secretary of the company, Mr. George M. Irwin, Pittsburgh, Pa. Those who can visit the works at Sharpsburg are cordially invited to call and examine the process, which will be explained by the inventor.

Millinery Goods, Fancy Notions, &c.

A few days ago we accepted an invitation to attend an "opening" of fall styles on Thursday and Friday of this week, at the new wholesale millinery house of Porter, Donaldson & Co., 127 Wood street, thinking that we would give our lady readers a description of the bonnets and styles. On visiting it, and finding ourselves completely surrounded by the milliners of the city and neighborhood, we found it would be simply impossible to give any description of all the bonnets, that would be at all satisfactory to ourselves or others. Hence we shall only mention one or two, and first, among those that seemed to strike us, and come in for general praise, was a handsome velvet in two shades of blue, the darkest shade being the old cloth blue that our grandmothers wore, but now called marine blue, the other a light shade called cell blue. It was very handsomely trimmed with a plume shaded to match velvets. The face trimming was very simple yet very pretty, consisting only of a bow of light blue gros-grain ribbon which brought out in strong yet pleasing contrast the darker shade of the velvet.

Another was a rich bronze velvet, with a wreath of autumn leaves for a face trimming. The outside trimming being handsome ostrich feathers of the same and contrasting shades as the velvet.

One of the handsomest was a rich olive velvet, trimmed with blue and blue feathers. In all of them we were struck with the odd shades and contrasts, using in so many instances two shades of the same color, yet as wide apart as they possibly could be dyed. Many new shades are introduced, old favorites of years ago brought back, and new ones, that have been struggling for life, seem to have leaped into new favor.

We notice olive, prune, myrtle, sage, the rich claret, the bright sultan, the many shades of bronze, the delicate blues and dainty lavender as predominating, and in them all found ribbons, velvets and feathers, all to match each other.

Everything seems to indicate that more flowers will be worn this fall than last, yet feathers still retain the lead, and of them there is no end. P. D. & Co. devoted their entire second floor to the exhibition of a mammoth stock of feathers, to attempt to describe which would be useless. Natural colored feathers, both long and the short tip, are something new and very pretty. The richly shaded feather is also something entirely new, and very rich, while in fancy wings, aigrettes, &c., there is every conceivable shade and style. Adjoining the patterns was displayed a very handsome table of ornaments, conspicuous among which was bright steel ornaments, now so popular, all the polished points sparkling and making a very effective trimming on a dark velvet or ribbon.

Many other items of interest claimed our attention on the different floors, but we cannot particularize, but only mention the fine assortment of ladies' ties, neck ruching, embroideries, &c., and express the wish that all our wholesale buyers will examine the stock of Porter, Donaldson & Co. before purchasing, and feel as much pleased with it as we were.

Boy Injured.

Yesterday afternoon a little boy of German parents, residing on Miltenberger alley, near Sixth avenue, was thrown from a cart near his home, and injured somewhat about the head, although not seriously. He was carried home and properly cared for. The injury was purely accidental.

THE HEALTH BOARD.

Regular Meeting Yesterday—No Cholera in the City.

A regular weekly meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon. Members present, Messrs. Arnholt, Arthurs, Edwards, House, Hays, Fleming and President Gross.

The Health Officer presented his report for the month of August:

Nuisances abated	739
Cleaning permits granted	205
Receipts from permits	$410 00
Expenditures	29 25
Balance on hand	$390 75

Twenty-three suits were instituted to compel the removal of nuisances. The number of deaths was 448.

The report was accepted.

A number of bills were presented and acted upon. Among the bills were some for carriage hire occasioned by visits to cholera patients at a distance and for the removal of patients to hospitals.

The Health Officer reported that there is now no cholera in the city. Disinfection of obnoxious places continues and suits are instituted against parties maintaining nuisances.

Dr. Arthurs called attention to the fact that a physician had reported a case of cholera on Center avenue some days since, which, upon examination, the City Physician decided to be an error. He (Dr. Arthurs) of the Board accepted the opinion of the City Physician, suggested that said officer be requested to make a note of the same upon the office record.

Dr. Arthurs stated that his object was simply to note the dispute in the case, and that the Board should recognize the opinion of the City Physician.

After some discussion the City Physician was ordered to make a written report to the Board as to the reported cholera case on Center avenue.

Mr. Edwards, from the Sanitary Committee, reported that they had examined certain places in the Twentieth ward, reported as being in a very bad condition. The committee found them not so bad as reported, but thought that something should be done in the matter. A system of drainage is badly needed.

On motion of Mr. Edwards the Health Officer was instructed to send a communication to Councils as to a general sewerage of the East Liberty valley.

THE Board of Prison Inspectors will meet to-day.

V. HILAR is the name of the man who was struck by a locomotive in Allegheny yesterday.

THE Pension Agent, Mr. McGregor and his clerks, are busily engaged in disbursing money.

A BRAKEMAN is reported to have been killed on the Pan Handle Railroad, near Mansfield, yesterday morning.

THE Gas Committee held a meeting yesterday and decided to recommend a number of additional street lamps.

BY request, Dr. Prestley will repeat his lecture on the Prodigal Son, to-morrow (Sabbath) at the Union Baptist church building, at three o'clock P. M.

THE United States Commission appointed to select a site for the new Government Buildings will meet on Monday next to prepare a report to be sent to the Secretary of the Treasury.

SERVICES will be resumed in the Third Presbyterian Church to-morrow. Preaching morning and evening by the pastor. Morning service at 10½ o'clock. Evening service at half past seven.

AN unknown man, supposed to be a farmer, residing near Greensburg, was killed by the fast line east, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, Thursday evening. The accident happened at a curve west of Greensburg.

GEORGE CAMPBELL, John Martin and John Scott, boys, were arrested and placed in the lock-up, Allegheny, yesterday, for till tapping. Fifteen dollars in money and a pistol were found on the person of Campbell.

THE forty hour devotion will be inaugurated tomorrow at the ten o'clock service at St. Bridget's Catholic service. The opening services will be of an important character, and the school children will attend in a body, the girls dressed in white and the boys wearing badges.

MRS. HELEN M. JENKINS arrived at home yesterday, after a brief season of recreation in the Catskill mountains, much improved in health. She will be prepared to receive pupils in French literature and history on and after Monday next.

THE alarm of fire yesterday morning, shortly before nine o'clock, was caused by fire breaking out in a shed in the rear of Kirkpatrick & Co.'s oil refinery, at the foot of Forty-second street, on the bank of the Allegheny. Some tar stored in the shed was consumed, but the loss was small.

WILLIAM HORNE, formerly on the police force, is charged before Mayor Blackmore with the larceny of a trunk on oath of Catharine Wilbert, his landlady. Mrs. W., it appears, held the trunk and contents for $27 boarding. A few evenings since, as is alleged, he took the trunk without leave. A warrant was issued.

THE Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated by the Wylie avenue Congregation for the first time in their new church edifice, on Sabbath. The pastor will be assisted on the occasion by Rev. Dr. Young, of Monmouth, Ill., who will preach morning and evening, and assist in the dispensing of the Lord's Supper in the afternoon at 3½ o'clock. The occasion is expected to be one of great interest. The public are invited.

MR. CHARLES HUBBARD, owner of a frame building on the corner of Forty-eighth street and the Allegheny Valley Railroad, is about to enter suit against the company for tearing away the building without authority, and attempting to take forcible possession of the lot. The building was removed by fastening ropes around it, hitching the ropes to a locomotive, and they putting on a full head of steam. Something had to give way, and it was the building that "went" in this case.

Favorable Opinions of Burdett Organs.

It gives me pleasure to express my sincere satisfaction with the Burdett Organ. For power, variety and the highest quality of tone I have never met with a reed organ equal to them.

MISS S. LE SEMPLE,
Music Teacher.

I am acquainted with nearly all the best makes of organs, and although they all contain some good points, yet, it is my conviction that the Burdett unites, in a singular degree, the good qualities and points of the others combined. While it is vastly superior in point of tone and durability, its cost is as low as of the ordinary and common instruments.

REV. T. F. STAUFFER.

To the Kleber Brothers.

Three years ago I purchased a Burdett organ of you, and it has proved far superior to any other manufacture for power and sweetness of tone.

A. MCMURRAY.

There is no organ in our neighborhood which will compare with our Burdett for sweetness and durability.

These splendid organs are sold on monthly payments, and at prices that defy competition. They are warranted for eight years. Call at

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Of Newell Institute.

For the year commencing September 8th, 1873.

The Principal of the Newell Institute, on the occasion of the removal of the boys' school from 267 Penn avenue to 47 Seventh street (formerly Irwin), for the purpose of securing improved accommodation for the school, takes pleasure in announcing thus formally the change. The new rooms are very much more pleasant, inviting and commodious than those of the former building. No change has been made in the location of the young ladies' school, as No. 255 Penn avenue, is not excelled, if at all equaled, in its general outfit by any private school in the city—and by few elsewhere.

While thus referring to the location of the Institute, the Principal would not wish to have it understood that the hard earned reputation of the school is to rest merely on this basis of suitable accommodations. He may be pardoned for saying that although heretofore poorly accommodated, supported by no moneyed interest, save its own earnings, and in the presence of institutions so supported, well accommodated, and largely advertised, the Institute has prospered, and, to say the very least, is regarded as of equal efficiency and merit. This fact has one solution—the teaching has been of the right kind, and the teachers have not spared themselves in their work. The pupils, many of whom are now reaping the fruit of this faithfulness, are appealed to with confidence in support of this statement.

Gratefully acknowledging and appreciating the confidence and kindness shown hitherto, and engaging for the future to protect and improve the record of the past efficiency of the Institute by a judicious selection of teachers, and the same general plan of management and discipline, he respectfully announces the new names of Miss Lily Thacher (music), Miss B. Head in the Ladies' School, and Mr. McCreery in the Boys' School. Also that Mr. Hugh Newell, lately Principal of the Pittsburgh School of Design, and previously connected with the Newell Institute, will be the Assistant Principal, and have charge of the classes in Drawing and Painting.

Terms as heretofore. Catalogues to be had in the Book and Music Stores.

The Principal will receive applications at 255 Penn avenue, from and after the first day of September. Re-opening September 8th.

T.Th.S J. R. NEWELL, Principal.

Honesty is the Best Policy.

We have never seen a better illustration of the truth of this old adage than is afforded by the success of the gift concerts of the Public Library of Kentucky, under the management of Governor Bramlette. Three of these concerts have been given, each offering a scheme of a million dollars. The public were so accustomed to being humbugged by dishonest enterprises of the same nature that they were slow to take hold of the tickets, notwithstanding the high character of the management and their confidence in the individual projectors of the scheme. Only 35,000 tickets were sold for the first concert, and the gifts awarded and paid on that basis. The second, just one year after, more than doubled the first, and the growing confidence of the public culminated in the sale of the whole 100,000 tickets of the third, which came off on the 8th of July. Now, when the managers present the unprecedented scheme of $3,000,000 for the fourth, nobody hesitates, nobody doubts its success. The only question is, how many chances can we afford to take.

The Winter Season.

No matter what quantity of coal, either anthracite or bituminous, any one may wish to order, from one ton up, Messrs. Huntsman, Miller & Co. can accommodate any purchaser who may give them a call. Their extensive supply of Wilksbarre anthracite as well as bituminous from their mines on the Pennsylvania Railroad and Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad (Pan Handle) places it within their power to fill any orders, large or small, promptly, at the lowest prices and to the complete satisfaction of the buyer. They have large yards both at Liberty street, opposite Sixteenth street, Pittsburgh, and No. 73 Anderson street, Allegheny city, where an order can be left personally or addressed by mail. See their advertisement in another column and convince yourself that they are the parties to deal with by giving them an order at once.

A Re-Min-Der.

The reader's attention is called to our sale of 200 lots on Mt. Washington, at 2 o'clock, on Saturday, September 6, Alex. McIlwaine, Auctioneer. No lengthy statement is deemed necessary, as the "Mountain Top" now widely circulated has familiarized the public mind with a full description of the beauties and advantages of this spot; we may however remark that the grounds here offered are as convenient and accessible as any within the city for a home, being but six minutes walk from the head of the Inclined Plane, and fourteen minutes distant from the City Hall; situated, too, in the midst of improvements now springing up on all sides round, overlooking a broad spreading landscape of green fields, of hill and dale, redolent with glowing beauties of summer, in an atmosphere of supernal brightness, where health is wafted on the wings of the gentle breeze, where the joys and bliss of domestic happiness are made complete by those attractions which Nature alone supplies. These in part are the advantages here offered, with the certainty, also, that all investments here made will rapidly enhance. Terms of sale, ten dollars cash, and ten dollars monthly afterwards.

The Warehouses of Pittsburgh.

No one who is desirous of purchasing that indispensable article, a stove either for cooking or heating purposes, should do so without visiting the large warehouse of Messrs. H. Anshutz & Son, No. 214 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, and 196 East Ohio street, Allegheny. We are positive that any parties calling, will make up their minds to buy on the spot. There is no greater inconvenience than a range that will cause one to sit down to a half cooked dinner, or a stove that will burn so badly as to necessitate ones shivering within doors. No such result will accrue from a purchase of one of this firm's Iron City and Union Cooking Ranges, or a Beacon Light Base Burner stove. Their patent school house stove should recommend themselves to those having charge of colleges, academies, &c.

Every Article

in the book store and news depot of Messrs. Gildenfenney & Hess, except papers and periodicals, is sold 20 per cent. lower than elsewhere.

Save 20 Per Cent.

The well known, wide-awake firm of Gildenfenny & Hess, dealers in books, stationery, &c., No. 45 Fifth avenue, have recently reduced all articles embraced in their large and varied stock 20 per cent. below the ruling price. This is an extraordinary inducement, and should at once double the volume of their business. The goods upon which this reduction has been made are not inferior or damaged, but are equal to any to be obtained in any establishment in the country, having been selected with the greatest care and being mostly new. Now is the time for our readers to obtain extraordinary bargains in books and stationery, and Gildenfenney & Hess are the firm who extend them.

Beaver College and Musical Institute.

Are our readers aware that if they seek a first-class boarding school for their daughters, or would place their sons in a safe locality and under wise direction, they need not send far away, but find every advantage in this institution? Visit Beaver and look Dr. Taylor's magnificent building through, and you will be satisfied. The Dr. is a practical and successful educator. The session opens September 9. The new building and rooms are very attractive.

The Greatest Triumph.

No doubt the greatest triumph of the age has been achieved by the Wilson Sewing Machine in carrying off the prize medal at Vienna. Agent, Mr. Lee S. Smith, 14 Sixth street.

What Enterprise Will Do.

Again we have a most emphatic proof that an enterprising business must succeed. We call the attention of all to the example set by Mr. B. Tiegel, No. 53 Smithfield street. He has started ahead of his competitors, and secured a most elegant assortment of fall and winter goods for gentlemen's wear. No lot of fabrics could possibly have been bought with greater judgment or care. All the latest styles are now contained in his stock. Pay him a visit, ascertain his prices, and then see if you are not going to useless trouble by inquiring elsewhere.

Without an Equal.

We mean by saying this that the "Anderson Patent Sash Balance" is completely master of the situation. No "balance" enters the field of rivalry with any expectation of over-topping the fame or position now held by this invention. It is the most perfect article in its line that has yet been brought to the notice of the public. It hardly needs any explanation as to its workings, although any one visiting the office of the Company, No. 70 Smithfield street, is shown the apparatus in practical use. It is no trouble for those in attendance to do so. For cheapness, durability and general excellence it stands A No. 1.
